

iGizmo

Dennis Publishing's new online gadget and technology magazine is definitely worth a read for those interested in games, mobile and the latest computing products. Picking up where the publisher's lads' mag Monkey left off, this is a more sophisticated product for a slightly more upmarket audience. The content is ideal for a web mag (gizmomag.co.uk) and the navigation is straightforward, through areas such as news, features and reviews. The magazine makes good use of video for both editorial and advertising content, and could become a must-read for a wide audience.